

Erika Caramillo-Hatch

Email: Erika.caramillo-hatch@louisiana.edu

College & Department: College of Liberal Arts, Psychology

Research interests/project:

The Zebrafish Lab conducts research to better understand human behavior from a neurobiological standpoint. Using a zebrafish animal model, the researchers in this lab are able to make comparative connections to humans on a wide variety of behavioral sets. Our main focus is exploring the neural basis of cognition, learning, memory, and Alzheimer's disease. Other interests include but are not limited to: addiction, individual differences, PTSD, motivation, and sleep.